Selection Criteria
Assistant Professor (Medical Education Project)
Faculty of Health Sciences and Medicine

Essential Attributes

- Possession of a PhD or Masters level qualification in education
- Knowledge of medical educational teaching and learning practices
- Knowledge and understanding of health professional clinical roles within the Health Care System
- Demonstrated record of working collaboratively with a wide range of academics and health professionals
- Excellent communication and interpersonal skills and ability to work collaboratively in an academic team
- Commitment to provision of high quality teaching and learning activities for medical students
- Commitment to provision of responsive, personalised and highly accessible learning environment to students
- Commitment to engage positively with clinicians and the wider community
- Commitment to life-long learning and continued professional development
- Interest in the Medical Humanities
- Commitment to integrated learning and teaching

Desirable Attributes

- Possession of a clinical qualification in Health Care (Medicine, Nursing, Allied Health, Social Work)